Upcoming Instructor Training

NRA Instructor Training Courses take experienced shooters and teach them to “teach” shooting using the NRA methodology and standards. NRA certification consists of two parts. Part one is a 6-hour “Basic Instructor Training,” which is common to all instructor training courses and is valid for 2-years (good for any instructor course taken during this period). Part two is discipline-specific (rifle, shotgun, pistol, etc.) courses that run from five to 14 hours depending on the discipline.

For all NRA Instructor Certifications you must pass a pre-course qualification that demonstrates your proficiency with the fundamentals of safe gun handling and basic marksmanship/shooting skills. The NRA requires a minimum of four students to conduct an NRA Instructor Course.

Prospective instructors do not need to complete BIT for USCCA Instructor Certification. The USCCA requires a minimum of three students to conduct a USCCA Instructor Certification class.
